

TODAYS ODDITY

MODESTO, Oct. 1.—Southern Pacific Ry. detectives are searching for a thief possessed of an unusual thirst. Rather, they are searching for one whose extraordinary craving for water has now been satisfied. The unknown walked into a railroad warehouse here and walked out again with a complete water fountain.

'ROUND
'N'
'ROUND

The main mystery of the age seems to be today, "Who put the shoe black on the football."

One player says the other did it, and the other says someone else did it.

What do you make of it, Watson?

The wise-crack of the evening was made the other night after a certain person had stood for more than an hour watching the linotypes.

"Gosh," this person exclaimed as he watched the operators put tomorrow's news into type, "them's big typewriters, ain't they?"

We were busy, so we couldn't stop and explain to him.

The requests that reach this office at times are amusing, or something.

The other night a certain person called, all excited and gasping to tell us he had caught a bass that was "fully four inches long," and wanted us to send out a reporter and a cameraman to get a picture.

Yes, he was quite serious about the whole thing, too.

The other day a certain red-headed person entered the office, threw out his chest and exclaimed: "I've quit smoking . . . and not like the guy you talked about in Round'n' Round."

For several days he kept dropping into the office, and as we would light a cigarette, he'd sadly shake his head and say, "Poor slaves, why aren't you like me . . . why don't you quit the filthy habit?"

Last night he came in with a cigarette stuck in his face. He inhaled a deep puff.

"Thought you had quit smoking," we said.

"Well," said the red-head slowly, "I've managed to cut them out gradually instead of all of the sudden."

Now comes the prize laugh of the season. No names are mentioned, but you can fill in the dotted lines.

There is a certain newspaperman in this district who has been trying to land some of his efforts in a certain national magazine.

And time after time he receives his stories back, accompanied by a rejection slip that says, "We are sorry that your story does not meet with the present needs of our magazine at this time. May we thank you . . . etc., etc."

Now comes the turning of the worm, the bend in the lane and what have you:

The other night this newspaperman received a bunch of canned publicity from this "literary" publication.

With a grin he read the publicity and chuckled.

Down into his desk drawer he searched, until he found one of the rejection slips from this "rag."

He crossed out the name of the magazine on the slip and wrote in the name of his paper.

He then carefully folded the publicity, stuck the rejection slip and the "news" into an envelope, and sent it back to the publishers.

As our friend Bill Shaker once remarked: "Behold, a thinking man. Such men are dangerous."

Grand Jury To Investigate Oakland Police Scandal

REV. SHULER SENTENCE UPHELD BY COURT

FINES MUST BE PAID BY PASTOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—UP.—The state supreme court decided here late today that by payment of fines totaling $100 the Rev. R. P. Shuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church South, Los Angeles, might escape serving five days of a sentence imposed upon him for contempt of court.

The supreme court dismissed one of the seven separate charges against the Rev. Shuler, and this one had carried a penalty of five days in jail.

In upholding the other six counts, the court ruled:

"The petition for a writ of habeas corpus is hereby refused and the petitioner is ordered remanded to the sheriff of Los Angeles county."

The court's opinion on the information furnished by L. Vallan-court, in which the minister was charged with an attempt to sway jurors in Judge Marshall P. McCormick's court who were deliberating on various phases of the Julian Petroleum corporation's collapse, was that the Rev. Shuler's remarks were made long enough after the matter was settled to leave a doubt whether he was in contempt or using his right of free speech.

The opinion made it clear, however, that Shuler had been right-fully sentenced to serve 15 days in jail.

DEVELOPMENT PLANNED ON WATERFRONT

With the revelation that the Berkeley Waterfront company has awarded a contract to the Daniels Construction company for improvement of its Richmond waterfront property, and the announcement that 352 acres of land adjoining the Berkeley company's property has been purchased, beliefs that the Great Northern railroad will locate its terminal in Richmond were strengthened yesterday.

Yesterday the Berkeley Waterfront company, which is said to be owned by the Great Northern, filed a contract at Martinez. This contract with the Daniels company is for the construction of a rock and pile seawall, 12,600 feet in length, to be built at a cost of $320,000. This wall will follow the line of a proposed shipping canal.

Although officials of the Berkeley company would not state, a usual, just what work was contemplated, it is understood that the next work to be done is to fill in the lands owned by the company for the terminal site.

The property, recorded as sold in another paper placed on file at the county seat, is located adjacent to Point Isabel, and lies in Contra Costa and Alameda counties. The land has an area of 352 acres and was sold for $250,000.

According to the deed placed on file, the property was sold by Gustave Niebaum company to the Crocker First Federal Trust company of San Francisco.

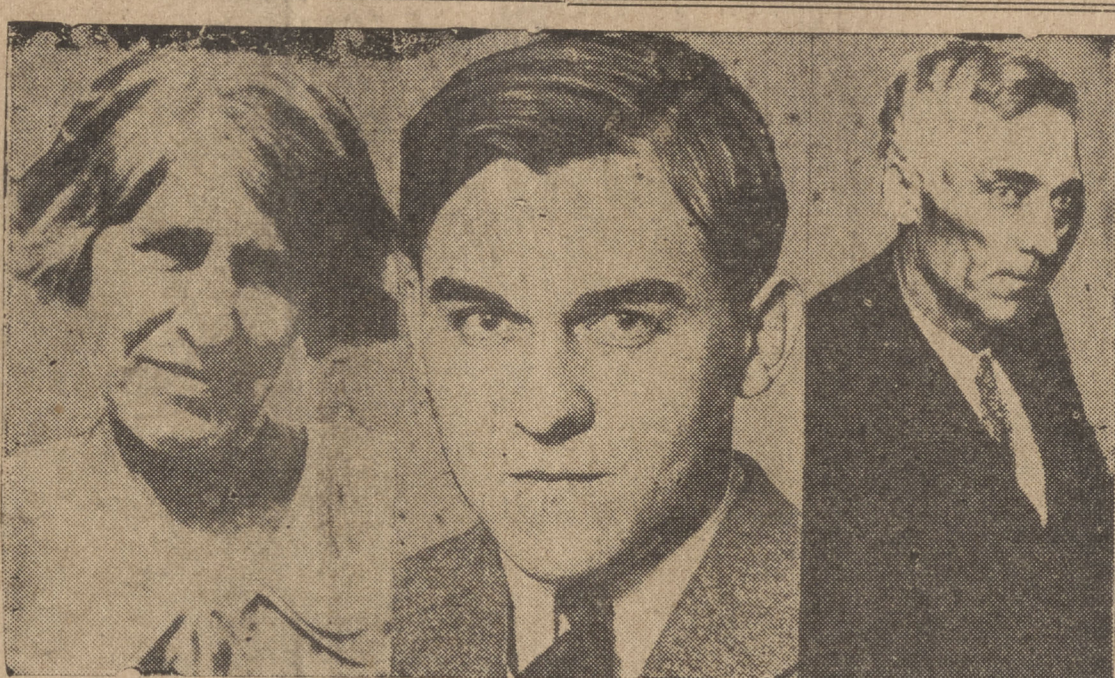

Although the Berkeley company does its dealings through the Wells Fargo bank, it is believed that the Crocker people acted as agents for them in the deal, to throw the public off the scent.

The development project, it was said yesterday, will probably require five years for construction. A shipping canal 400 feet wide and 18 feet deep, extending from the present harbor channel at the Ford site.

With the purchase of the additional land on the waterfront, it would give the Berkeley Waterfront company a large acreage for the proposed terminal.

As a result of these developments, citizens of Richmond and the bay district are eagerly awaiting the next announcement by the company.

Ape Boy Will Be Hanged At Prison Today

SAN QUENTIN, Oct. 1.—UP.—Gordon Stewart Northcott assumed an attitude of bravado tonight as he tried to keep from staring at the door through which he must walk tomorrow morning to be hanged for the murder of small boys on his Riverside county ranch.

Late in the afternoon the condemned youth had told Warden J. Honohan that he would not see Mrs. Nelson H. Winslow, mother of two boys he was accused of killing, and had then started talking on the floor of the "death chamber" while a cheap phonograph he had asked for played "Song of Songs" and "Casey Jones."

In response to the appeal that he see Mrs. Winslow, and in the face of the warden's revelation to him that every prison regulation had been broken so that a woman might enter the "death chamber," Northcott said:

"Not Guilty"

"I have nothing to tell anyone. I'm not guilty, that's all I have to say."

Holohan said the boy's spirit was weakening and that he had assumed the air of nonchalance that may desert him entirely as the hour of execution draws near.

Warden Holohan said he would visit Northcott once more tonight to try again to persuade the youth.

PILOTS SAFE
IN CRASH

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 1.—UP.—Lieut. Jimmy Doolittle, hero of countless adventures and thrilling escapes, added another exploit to his record today when his racing plane collided with an Army plane 150 feet above the airport here.

The Army pilot, Lieut. J. M. Cross of Wichita, Kan., escaped with his life by a parachute jump. Doolittle brought his crippled ship to earth not far from where Lieutenant Cross alighted.

The accident happened when Doolittle, making a power climb at 180 miles an hour, clipped the tail of Cross' slower moving Army plane. The force of the blow rolled the heavier plane over on its back, pitching Cross forward and injuring his head against the cockpit.

Doolittle reported he did not see the Army plane because it occupied a "blind spot" in his line of vision and he was unaware that Cross was attempting to avoid his ship until the two planes interlocked. The propeller of Doolittle's ship was cracked and his engine stopped.

Man Burned By
Tractor Blast

A tractor explosion yesterday morning caused severe burns to Floyd Wilson, employe and caretaker at the Berkeley Country Club.

The accident occurred when Wilson attempted to fill the tractor's gasoline tank while the motor was running. The gasoline is believed to have spilled on the hot exhaust pipe. The garage was set on fire by the explosion, but was extinguished by Earl and Clayton Morrill, employes at the club, before the fire had time to spread to other buildings.

Wilson was taken to the Humboldt hospital in Albany suffering from burns on the face, arms, and chest.

Loss Of Papers
Results In Suicide

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—UP.—In view of hundreds of persons on the corner of Fourth and Market streets, Bjarne Asplund, former sergeant in the Danish army, drew a revolver and killed himself today.

Asplund had fallen from the step of a street car and a pile of papers he was carrying scattered over the street. Traffic Officer Theodore Andrus stepped up to assist in picking up the papers and Asplund shot himself.

The police studied the papers found many chemical formulas for making alcoholic compounds and decided that Asplund had feared that he would be arrested when the traffic officer saw what he was carrying.

Probably the most interesting film of the group dealt with Mount St. Michel, the island that has in turn been a monastery, prison and a place of interest for sight-seers.

Two more movies dealing with France will be presented before the French students at Richmond Union High school this term.

These movies are intended to make the study of French and France more interesting to language students.

NEW CHARGES
TO BE FACED
BY OFFICERS

OAKLAND, Oct. 1.—When the county grand jury convenes here Friday morning at 10 o'clock, indictments charging extortion and bribery against Fred Tatum, Oakland police sergeant, will be asked by District Attorney Earl Warren.

Warren made this announcement today, following a series of conferences with Chief of Police James T. Drew and Frank Leavitt, foreman of the jury.

In the meantime, Tatum is being held in the county jail under a technical charge.

Hijacking Seen
Warren stated that he will ask the jury to investigate charges of a bootlegger that his stores of liquor were hijacked by police officers.

Indictments charging grand theft may be returned if these charges are found true, it was stated.

A possibility that the investigation might be extended to the activities of the entire police department was seen when Warren, Drew and Leavitt reviewed statements made yesterday by police officers and bootleggers.

Probe Asked
No new evidence has been uncovered in Tatum's case, it was said.

A demand that the matter be thoroughly investigated was made late today by Frank Colbourn, commissioner of health and safety, who is in charge of the police department.

The phases of the grand jury investigation is scheduled as follows:

Cases Told
The case of Tatum, who is held for felony investigation, following charges that he had accepted bribes from bootleggers.

COMPANION
SOUGHT

A 21-year old youth, charged with the robbery of a service station till, was captured by two El Cerrito men yesterday afternoon, after an exciting chase across lots in an automobile.

The captured youth gave the name of Claude Abbott, 21, of Butte Mont. A companion is being sought by police.

Although the youth denies it, El Cerrito police believe that he is connected with the robbery of another service station on Tuesday night.

Robbery Seen
Abbott and a companion drove into a service station operated by M. D. Swartz, at Pink Lane and San Pablo avenue yesterday afternoon in an old Ford car, bearing an out-of-state license.

Swartz said the boys ordered him to grease the car. One of the boys drove the car to the grease rack and the service station owner started to work.

It was then he saw Abbott, so he told police, and the boys fled from his service station.

Chase Starts
Grasping a monkey wrench in his hand, Swartz started for the youth. Seeing the station owner coming toward him, the boy started to run across lots.

Shouting at the top of his voice, Swartz pursued the lad across lots. At this juncture, William Bona, who works on Moser lane, saw the pursuit, leaped into his machine, drove it across lots and finally caught up the fleeing youth and halted him.

Returns Money
Police say that when Abbott was captured he turned over a $10 bill he had stolen from the till to Swartz.

During the exciting chase, the companion of Abbott escaped. In spite of a severe grilling Abbott refused to reveal to El Cerrito police the name of his companion. He also denied that he or his pal played any part in the robbery of the Burpee service station at Stockton street and San Pablo avenue.

Was 'Broke'
Abbott told police that he and his companion had just come to the bay region from Los Angeles and that the two of them were "broke." It was then, so police say, that they decided to rob the service station.

The Burpee robbery occurred Tuesday night. H. P. Burpee, the owner, said that a Ford car with an out-of-state license came to his station and the driver asked for gas. When Burpee was called away for a moment, one of the two in the machine robbed his till of $10.

DRIVERS FINED
$200 IN COURT

Fines collected in the court of Police Judge A. G. Thompson in El Cerrito last night totaled in value $200.

The largest fine was paid by J. A. Buck, who was assessed $50 on a charge of reckless driving.

Those fined were: Lester McDonald, speeding $10; Edward J. Koepe, speeding $15; Ralph R. Perrv, speeding $15; D. Estrino, speeding $15; William Mullenaux, speeding $15; Eugene E. Boyfay, open cut-out $5; L. W. Millan, speeding $35; Ralph F. O'Conner, speeding $15; Manuel P. Alvez, speeding $10; Peter Strumport, speeding $15; J. A. Buck, reckless driving $50.

U. C. RESERVES PROVE THEIR STRENGTH

BERKELEY, Oct. 1.—The University of California football team, now completing preparations to receive Washington State at California Memorial stadium next Saturday, will enter the game with new confidence bred by the knowledge that the Bear reserve material is adequate.

The anxious question of reserve strength was answered to the satisfaction of Bear followers last Saturday after the California eleven had convincingly defeated Santa Clara 19 to 7 in the "openers."

While the Bears were testing their mettle against the Broncos, the Congress were administering a 47 to 12 defeat to the College of Idaho. Coach Olin E. "Tabe" Hollingbery and his squad were scheduled to leave Pullman tonight and will arrive in Berkeley Friday morning at 9 o'clock. They will stop at a local hotel.

Good Reserves
With a daring that has not been his wont, Coach "C. M. "Nix" Price substituted his first and second varsities as units Saturday, and the maneuver did much to quell the fiery Santa Clara attack. The move left the Bear coach-es gasping for adjectives, but it demonstrated in satisfactory fashion that while the Bear squad may suffer from the errors of inexperience, it will be at no loss for replacements.

Here is some of the new back-field material uncovered by the Price strategy:

Henry "Hank" Schallach, a halfback discovery who romped 65 yards in 11 tries, passed for a touchdown, and made good punting for points—all in his first game for the Bears.

New Player
Bill McCutcheon, who demonstrated marked ball carrying ability, and who ploughed through for one of the Bears' touchdowns.

Ray East and Ralph Seely, two speedy backs who held their own in fast competition.

George Watkins, another half-back, whose punting will be an asset to the Bears.

All of these are new players, employed rarely or not at all last season. The "old guard," Ed Griffith, quarter; Joe Hickingbotham, half; and "Buster" Gill and "Moose" Garvey, fullbacks, held their own against the reserves for their places in the lineup.

Huskies Will Travel By Sea

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 1.—Washington's Huskies will be given an opportunity to test the strength of their stomachs, as well as the power and speed of their grid muscles when they travel south on football trips this year.

Coach Jimmy Phelan and Graduate Manager Earl Campbell have agreed that at least one of the two trips to California will be made by water, a method of transportation never before used by Washington university athletic teams.

Phelan favors the sea-going route because it would give his men a chance for workouts en route, and put them in better condition for playing, provided rough weather does not put them in their berths, victims of seasickness. Pacific Coast conference football coaches have always frowned on the idea of sea travel, fearful that they would have their hands full of sick players.

It is probable that the Huskies will travel to Los Angeles by steamship for their game Nov. 27 with University of Southern California, and they may possibly sail to San Francisco for their game with Stanford at Palo Alto, Nov. 8. Suggestions for trips by airplane were definitely turned down, Phelan declaring that that mode of transportation was too dangerous and too expensive.

Athletics Win First Game Of Series From St. Louis Cardinals

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—UP—An old, old principle in baseball was applied by the Philadelphia Athletics today to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals in the opening game of the series.

It was wee Willie Keeler who propounded the theory of "hit 'em where they ain't," and certainly there were no Red Birds in the distant spots to which the Mackmen belted the ball today.

They did not hit often, but when they did, the resounding wallop brought joy to the hearts and screams of delight from the throngs of 33,000 wildly excited Philadelphia fans.

Two Homers
Al Simmons and Mickey Cochrane hit homers, Jimmy Foxx and Mule Haas tripled and Jimmy Dykes hit a whacking double, and every one of these five hits—all that were made off Burleigh Grimes, the St. Louis pitcher, led directly to a run.

Just as predicted, Connie Mack started his crack "hand-er," Lefty Grove and while Grove was touched for nine hits, the Cardinals were able to score only in one inning.

When the National league champions got to the ace's hurling staff for four hits and two bolstering sacrifice flies to go into the lead in the third inning, it looked as if they might hammer their way on to victory.

Grimes Bears Down
Grimes, using his vaunted spitball, was hurling his head off to win and had been found for but one hit, Jimmy Foxx's rousing triple in the second which was followed by Bing Miller's sacrifice fly and the first run of the game.

But Grimes bore down there on. In the fourth the mighty Simmons caught hold of one of Burleigh's fast ones, and dove it far and away over the fence and up onto the front porch of a neighboring house.

Then it was anyone's battle, with the score tied and the fans thrilling to every pitch. President Hoover and his guests in the gaily decorated box near the Athletics' dugout rising from their seats at each crack of the bat.

Cochrane Out
Actually, the winning blow of the game was Dykes' slashing double off the left field wall, with Chick Hafey and Taylor Douhit straining in vain to intercept the flying ball. This wallop scored Max Bishop, who had walked with one out.

At this point, there was introduced the first bit of "master mind-ing" of the series, and while it had no effect whatever upon the outcome of the game, it was rather picturesquely effective for the moment.

Burleigh Grimes was burning up after that double, and with Dykes prancing around second and the crowd howling for more runs, the veteran engaged in a verbal passage-at-arms with Mickey Cochrane, finally talking Mickey into striking out.

Simmons Walked
Then Sergeant Street, the keeper of the Cardinals, decided to get the jump on Connie Mack in the "master-minding" business and ordered Al Simmons purposely passed. And with that, the crowd went wild, booing and calling down mal-edic-tions upon the head of Grimes, who, after all, was only obeying orders.

Cochrane got his own back by striking out Foxx, the next man up, to end the inning.

With the Cardinals still getting to Grove for spanking singles past first line of defense, and only prevented from scoring in the seventh by Grimes' natural lack of speed on the base paths, Mule Haas decided to move the game a little farther onto the foe.

Haas Triples
Miller popped to Adams to open the Mackmen's half of the seventh and Haas slammed a triple smack into the visitors' bull pen.

Wig-wag went Connie Mack's score card from the shelter of the A's dugout, and Haas dug in for home with the first pitch, racing nearly to the plate before Joe Boley's neatly placed ball was on its way. This added a run.

In the eighth, with two out, Mickey Cochrane came up, sore as only an Irishman can be when a Dutchman has bested him. And Mickey got ample revenge by busting the ball right out of the park over the right field wall and up onto the porch where Simmons' homer had found haven. This established a world's record for front porches.

That was all the hitting and all the scoring. Grove bore down and the gallant battle, but was outplayed by the state champion.

LEGION ELEVEN SHORTAGE OF WILL PLAY DUCKS IS SEEN

Figuring on another win this Sunday when the American Legion team meets the Ashby Athletic club on the Richmond Union High school field, Claude Samples, coach of the Richmond Post team has been drilling the squad on new plays and formations.

Samples was considerably dissatisfied with the showing made by the legion team last Sunday when it defeated the Acorn Athletic club by a 6 to 0 score, declaring that the margin should have been much larger.

The coach blames the low score on ragged playing, and stated at Tuesday night's practice that he hopes to eliminate all tumbles and errors before the game Sunday.

With this end in mind, Samples drilled the linesmen hard Tuesday night in opening holes, and has perfected new forms of interference with the backfield and members of the line, working in conjunction.

Due to minor injuries sustained by players during last Sunday's game, no scrimmage was held Tuesday night, but it is probable Samples will put the squad through a hard final workout tonight, preparatory for Sunday's battle.

The practice will be held in front of the Longfellow junior high school, and Samples has requested that all players be present.

"The fellows who don't show up at practices regularly, unless they have some valid excuse, will not see action in the games," Samples said.

Dan Bradley, the hard worked manager of the local team, has several games in view, and has received offers from leading teams in this section of the state.

At present Bradley is communicating with managers of Monterey, Sonoma, Santa Rosa, and San Francisco teams for games, and is expecting to have a game each Sunday.

Although no game has been positively lined up for October 12, Bradley has several teams in view, with the City of Paris squad of San Francisco looming as the probable opponents of the local aggregation.

Oct. 19 the Richmond boys will play their first out of town game, meeting Antioch at that city's gridiron.

Bud Clarke, stellar fullback of the Richmond team, will probably not be seen in action this Sunday, as he is recovering from a broken nose, sustained in last Sunday's game.

Several other members of the squad are nursing bruises, cuts and bumps, but all are expected to be in good condition by Sunday.

Sunday's game, by the way, will not be any walkover for the Richmond squad, as the Ashby team has the reputation of being one of the fastest and heaviest aggregations in this vicinity.

MacKenzie, assistant graduate manager of the associated students of the University of California today.

"The rumor is going the rounds that the game is already a sell-out," MacKenzie said. "Nothing could be more ridiculous; the stadium is only a little more than half reserved."

Society NOTES

LOCAL PARTY ATTENDS S. F. CHURCH MEET

An exceedingly interesting session was reported by members of the local Presbyterian church who attended the Presbyterian society meeting yesterday at Potrero Neighborhood house, in San Francisco.

Dirk Lay, a missionary worker among the Pima Indians in Arizona, was the guest speaker of the day and told in an entertaining way of his accomplishments there. Lay is largely responsible for the construction of Coolidge dam for the Arizona Indians and is credited with extensive work among the Pima race.

A reception tendered Miss Marcia Kerr, who is the new foreign secretary for the Pacific coast, was one of the features of the session.

Nine Russian girls entertained with songs presented in both Russian and English and another enjoyable contribution to the program was a cleverly illustrated "chalk talk" given by a Chinese worker among the Russian boys.

W. E. Tanghe, superintendent of the society was another interesting speaker of the afternoon.

The meeting was an all day affair and at noon those attending were served a delightful Russian tea featuring the Russian "coudre" by the girls of the mission.

The Potrero Neighborhood house is beautifully situated on Potrero hill and commands a beautiful view of the city and bay. The Presbyterian society meetings are held once monthly alternating the meeting places between Oakland and San Francisco. The next meeting will be held November 5 in the First Presbyterian church of Oakland with several missionaries to be present.

Those who attended yesterday session from Richmond were: Mrs. J. H. Plate, Mrs. W. Gibson and Mrs. C. R. Alexander.

WOMEN'S CLUB ENDORSES NEW SENATE BILL

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Upon recommendation of Oda Faulconer, San Fernando, state chairman of legislation of the California Federation of Women's clubs, no action was taken in regard to the daylight savings bill by the executive board members in session, Saturday, September 27, at the Los Angeles district headquarters.

Mrs. Faulconer presented also a resolution endorsing senate bill 2908 which proposes to make unlawful, the killing of the American bald eagle. This bill was endorsed by the general federation at the recent biennial and was passed unanimously by the state board. The emergency resolution passed at the biennial which dealt with prison reform in regard to the employment of prisoners came up for discussion at the board meeting. Grace Barneberg, San Luis Obispo, state chairman institutional relations, was instructed to prepare a resolution embodying one along similar lines which would pertain to California. The Pan American treaty now in the hands of the United States foreign relations committee will be studied by members of the state board as will Latin American problems. Clara Bryant Heywood, Pasadena, state chairman international relations, presented a resolution to that effect which was adopted unanimously.

Mrs. W. W. Slayden, state president, presided at the Saturday meeting of the board. There were both afternoon and morning sessions with luncheon at noon in the headquarters. Mrs. Howard U. Sherwood, Monterey Park, president of the Los Angeles district, presented members of her board at luncheon who were present also at the afternoon session.

Regret was expressed by the state president at the recent death of Mrs. Frank Gibson, state historian, and Mrs. L. G. Leonard, state chairman of revisions. Sympathy was extended Mrs. T. E. Scott, state advertising manager of the California Federation News and Mrs. W. E. Mabey, a state and national worker among women's clubs. These women were recently bereaved of their husbands. Sympathy was also extended Mrs. Howard U. Sherwood, president of Los Angeles district, whose brother was recently killed in an automobile accident.

Welcomed at the executive session was Mrs. Robert J. Burdette who has been travelling in Canada and the northern part of the United States during the past three months; also Miss Grace Barneberg, San Luis Obispo, who has been ill during the summer. Mrs. W. W. Green, junior past state president, was an honor guest at luncheon and remained through the afternoon session.

Speaking of federation principles and ethics, Mrs. Burdette pointed out the fact that there has been since the founding of the federation of women's clubs, an unwritten law in the federation that no member of a federated executive board shall exploit the federation in furthering partisan politics.

Adherence to this principle met with the general assent of the state board. Mrs. Burdette later voiced further disapproval of individuals exploiting the federation. "I consider it unethical to use the lists of memberships of clubs to circulate them for anything other than federation work," she said. In these sentiments Mrs. Burdette was heartily supported by Mrs. W. W. Slayden, state president.

Mrs. Slayden began the reports of the day by reporting on the progress in state federation work which shows increased enthusiasm in all parts of the state, she said. In regard to the new state directory which is just out she said, "This has been a particularly difficult task this year because we have exerted great effort to have the directory accurate in every respect. The total membership was based on clubs which have paid their dues into the federation prior to the last of April. If certain clubs see fit to go out of the federation now and then, that is no cause for alarm for the federation grows stronger each year and new clubs are constantly applying for admission."

Mrs. W. S. Cairns, Linday, program chairman for the next state convention, which will be held at Fresno in April, reported that already plans are being formulated to make the convention program a banner one in the annals of the state federation. Conference breakfasts instituted by Annie Barry last spring at Oakland will again be a feature of the convention.

The six district presidents of the state were all present and gave unusual interest in all branches of the federation being shown at the opening of the club season. The general federation foundation fund, in which California is striving to be 100 per cent in their quota, is claiming the attention in all districts. Mrs. W. G. James, Hanford, president of the San Joaquin valley district, reported that her district has almost completed its quota. Mrs. Burdette stated that she recently invested $25,000 in bonds out of the general federation proportion. Mrs. Burdette is national chairman of the foundation fund and she conceived the idea of the penny-a-day plan which began in California and is being taken up now by many other states.

There were only three women delegates at the Pan American trade council held at Sacramento recently, reported Mrs. Annie Little Mary, who was there as a delegate from the federation. There were 18 representatives from 18 Latin American countries. All decisions were arrived at by round table discussions. It is the opinion that it is very fitting that women should be represented at these councils in the future because of the heavy buying done

WESLEY M. E. CHURCH HAS RALLY DINNER

With 230 guests in attendance the rally dinner held last night in the Wesley Methodist church was reported to be a complete success. This was one of the features of rally week being observed by the church.

Mrs. Ernest Kates directed the games and stunts for the smaller children and entertainment for the intermediates was supervised by Mrs. Lulu Pennington.

The selected grove is the Jordan Creek grove in the large Bull Creek-Dyerville project. The federation now has a sign posted there marking the site.

Appointments listed at the executive session were: Mrs. George W. Turner, Fresno state chairman of revisions; Mrs. Louis Engler, Berkeley, chairman federation extension; Mrs. Robert Fisher, Carlsbad, chairman community welfare and Mrs. Sydney Mayer, San Diego, chairman arts and crafts. Mrs. Mayer presented Mrs. Slayden with an embossed original poem on parchment and a model of incense burner, her own handiwork, both typifying the work of the department. This work was originated in the state by Mrs. Ida Masters of San Diego with a view toward international exchange.

BANKERS SEE BUSINESS PICKUP

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 1.—UP—Expressions of optimism in regard to the business outlook for 1931 featured today's session of the American Bankers' association.

Indicative of a series of predictions that trade would soon improve, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company and widely quoted economist, said he believed an increased accumulation of savings pointed to progressive business recovery.

President Hoover, who attended a world series game in Philadelphia today, is scheduled to speak at the 56th annual convention of the association tomorrow. Mrs. Hoover, who has been attending a Girl Scouts' meeting at Indianapolis, was expected to arrive here late tonight.

Rome C. Stephenson, vice president of the St. Joseph County Savings bank, South Bend, Ind., was elected president of the association today. He was the first Indian ever to hold the office.

Harry J. Haas, vice president of the First National Bank of Philadelphia was elected first vice president and thereby becomes the president for 1932 providing no contests develop at the next convention.

The association departed from a traditional policy during today's session when it ratified a resolution recommending national branch bank banking in limited areas. The resolution was adopted without the anticipated fight, when an amendment was passed declaring official disapproval of any invasion of state autonomy and favoring equal privileges in the dual system of chaining unit banks.

Ayres, in his speech before the State Savings Bank division, declared he detected a trend toward renewed prosperity in the reports of increased savings accounts.

"I am confident that 1931 will be a year of progressive business if we do as we have in the past—progressively accumulate savings," he said.

JACK DONAHUE DRIVERS ASKED TO ADJUST LIGHTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—UP—Jack Donahue, the hooper, died today while still a young man. He was a victim of overwork though the doctors said his death resulted from sudden failure of the heart after complications brought on by sinus trouble and a kidney ailment.

Thus passed from the musical comedy stage one of its established stars, a man who gagged and top-danced his way to fame and who might well have recovered had he chosen to rest rather than continue to spend his energy in enough occupation to keep three other men busy.

It was last May when physicians first warned him that to continue in "Sons O' Guns" was to court a physical breakdown. Nevertheless he continued with the show until a week ago when he left the cast in Cincinnati.

His friends were saying today that he stayed with the troupe because he didn't want to endanger the closing of the road tour and the throwing of 150 other actors out of work. Donahue, on the other hand, would probably have charged it up to vanity.

"If I don't get over at any time, with any audience," he once said, "I can't eat, sleep, or say a decent word to anyone. If that isn't vanity, what is?"

It was such admirable candor that marked his theatrical career from the time that he acted in a medicine show through New England until he emerged as the co-star in such success as "Sunny" and "Rogues."

He was 38 when he died and for 11 years he had been established on Broadway. Not only was he one of the greatest dancing comedians of the day, but he was beginning to win respect in other fields. He was a partner in the production of a farce comedy last spring. He was writing a series of magazine articles. And he was a dancing instructor.

Donahue spent his early years in Charlestown, a suburb of Boston, and early showed a talent for the stage. He was one of the few persons who could sincerely term his father his "best friend and severest critic."

One of the favorite stage legends concerns the time that Donahue was appearing in vaudeville and saw his father in the house. "The biggest thing," he gagged, "that my father ever pulled off was his shirt."

Donahue, Sr., climbed over the footlights then and there and broke up the show.

Natural Gas
costs less to use
It gives clean and safe automatic heating

NATURAL Gas is the modern fuel. Turn a valve or touch a Thermostat and you have heat—for as long as you like. Turn it off and there is nothing to clean up or carry away, and no diminishing fuel supply to think about.

The Warm-air Furnace

The Warm-Air Furnace

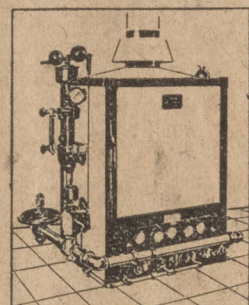

In California the climate is mild. It is not always necessary to have an elaborate and expensive heating system. The Warm-Air Furnace supplies perfect heating for the entire home. Its first cost is low. There is nothing to wear out. Clean, freshly heated air circulates to every room of your home. A Thermostat keeps the temperature uniform and healthful.

All burnt gases go outdoors through the chimney without mingling with the warm air which circulates in your home.

Ask us or a heating dealer for a heating proposal. Very convenient terms can be arranged.

Steam Heat

If you are planning to live in your home for a long time and wish the finest heating comfort such as you find in large hotels and apartment houses, then you'll want Steam Heat with radiators, concealed or exposed, located in each room.

The Steam Boiler

Natural Gas lends itself more readily than any other fuel to easy and safe automatic control. No expensive automatic burner is necessary, no fireman is needed. A Thermostat, located in your living room does all the watching and keeps your home uniformly warm.

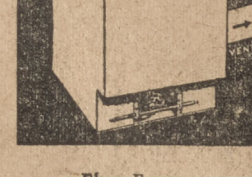

Automatic!

With a tiny lever on this Thermostat you start or stop your furnace or boiler. It automatically keeps your home at an even, perfect temperature.

The Steam Boiler is made for any small or large home, flat, apartment house, or building. Here is the finest heating, perfect cleanliness, and absolute freedom from care. Ask us or a heating dealer for estimate.

The Floor Furnace

Perhaps the quickest method of heating is with a Floor Furnace. Turn a handy valve—clean heat flows into your home. One Floor Furnace of the proper size gives enough healthful warmth for two or three rooms in the coldest weather. No basement is necessary.

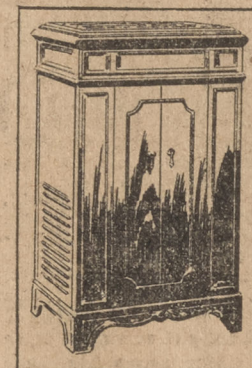

Floor Furnace

All burnt gases go outdoors through a vent. Completely installed for $10.00 down and only $7.50 a month.

Circulating Room Heater

It burns Natural Gas. It supplies quick, circulating heat for two to four rooms. Its healthful warmth reaches every cold corner. It is as good to look upon as a fine mahogany cabinet and will harmonize perfectly with your furnishings. Made in several sizes and designs. $5 down and only $7.50 a month, completely installed.

Circulating Room Heater

Enjoy all the cheer of the lively, open fire without the usual muss and cleaning that goes with it. Have a Radiantfire. It gives clean, cheerful heat instantly.

Radiantfire

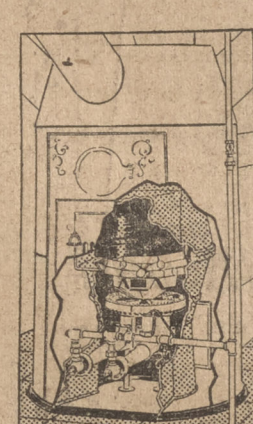

Radiantfires are made in many sizes and designs to conform with any decorative scheme. We'll install one for $5.00 down.

Heating dealers also recommend and sell Heating Equipment that burns Natural Gas

Change your Present Furnace to Burn Natural Gas

A simple change and your present coal furnace becomes automatic and care-free. You'll have no more fires to build, no more uncertain heating.

And why not change your furnace to burn Natural Gas?—this automatic heating costs no more! We merely install the silent Occidental Conversion Burner in the firebox. It is perfectly safe and healthful. The burnt gases go outdoors through the chimney just as smoke does from your present fire. An automatic Thermostat controls the temperature in your home.

Occidental Conversion Burner

Total price of Occidental Conversion Burner installed in warm-air furnace, $110.00. Terms $10.00 down, $5.00 a month.

The "For Rent" or "For Sale" sign on your property will come down quicker if you offer this automatic heating.

Change Circulating Room Heater to Burn Natural Gas

Make your Circulating Room Heater up-to-date by changing it to burn Natural Gas. You'll have quick heat without the bother of starting a fire. There is no annoyance about cleaning up after your heater. You'll keep your home at an even temperature simply by regulating a handy valve.

All burnt gases go outdoors through the chimney just as smoke does from your present fire.

Circulating Room Heater changed to burn Natural Gas $26.50. $1.50 down, $1.25 a month for 20 months.

"Beauty Is Its Own Excuse For Being"

ONCE upon a time there was a man who shorted (we've all heard him) over woman's slavery to her looks, her clothes, her personal vanity. With lundy expressed scorn and indignation he read in his paper such items as the reports of the conventions of the beauty experts.

He read how it is estimated that the average family—which means its womenfolk—spends $30 a year for cosmetics and beauty treatments.

That American beauty seekers spend $800,000 annually for cosmetics and $1,100,000,000 for having them put on.

He read that one woman, Mrs. Ruth D. Mauder is said to have made more than $1,000,000 in the beauty business.

And that it is the fourth largest industry in the United States.

He read, with withering contempt, such beauty tips as the following:

"Remember eyes and mouth are the most important features of your appearance."

"More care should be devoted to the eyes than to any of the others."

"Shadow, not shade the eyelids."

"Place the shadowing on well."

"Then cover with powder so that the coloring is barely visible."

"Girls wearing the new hats must become 'eyebrow sensitive.'"

"Careful use of lipstick can make small mouths look larger."

"And thick lips look thin."

"Be sure your lipstick matches your gown."

"In selecting your powder get a shade that matches your normal skin."

"Take some part of the body unexposed to determine this shade."

"Medium color for dark gowns—brighter hue of rouge for evening."

"Remember a purple base rouge with a purple gown."

"Make a wonderful caricature."

"Dry faces wrinkle much faster than oily ones."

"Green or black fingernails—manicures to match the costume."

"Will be worn by the smartest women, as an autumn fashion."

"Rose shadows under the eye give a background to the beauty."

"Failure to brush the hair makes it turn gray early."

"Green powder is excellent for women with light coloring."

"But no rouge should be used."

"Wear make-up and clothes to accentuate your individuality."

"Eat candy if you would acquire the fashionable curves."

"Violet prophesies that the hourglass figure is coming back."

"Women in London are adopting 'catwalking.'"

"Bee, bluebells, butterflies, even tattooed floral garters."

"Are now demanded of the tattooing artists of London."

"Designs are frequently tattooed just above the knee."

"One society hostess has surrounded a mole with a design."

"Another has had a bumble bee designed on the nape of her neck."

"The modern woman spends money to keep her face pretty."

"Even if she has to wear old shoes and stockings with holes in the toes."

"Here," the man scolded to whoever would listen to him, "is the quintessence of feminine absurdity."

"No man would ever take this beauty seriously."

"He isn't interested in anything as superficial as mere appearance."

"And yet, the women want the men to consider them mental equals."

"To give them business and political power."

"These foolish females interested in matching lipsticks and buying green powder!"

It all sounded noble and forceful and sensible, the things the man said. But these are some of the things he did.

First, he was very, VERY fussy in picking his stenographer and other office assistants—pretty.

He wouldn't give a chance to a girl with a shiny nose and a shabby pair of shoes.

No matter how glowing her recommendations, or how intelligent her expression.

He didn't hire Jumballs, it is true. But he had to be ornamental as well as useful.

They had to dress like a million dollars, even if he was paying them only $25 a week.

They had to have smooth, cleverly tinted complexion.

Nothing crude and glaring, in the way of make-up, but nothing pale and washed-out, either.

They had to have glossy, permanent wavy locks.

And carefully manicured hands.

In short, they must be impeccably groomed and clad.

If they were to get a chance to take his dictation, keep his files, do his bookkeeping.

And he was also careful not to hire anybody who had lost the look of youth.

Whether the youth was natural or synthetic, he didn't stop to inquire.

"The women in a man's office," he might have argued had anybody inquired about his employment policy.

"Are an index of his business prosperity."

And often are his first contact with customers and business associates.

Of course they can't be sloppy and shabby.

"They have to show personality."

Second, when this gentleman married a wife.

Did he choose a plain Jane, guileless of make-up and smart dressing.

A woman who was clean and neat and wholesome, but who had no style.

And who refused to aid her natural charms with all the artificial ones which she could adapt to her purpose.

Our ruthless critic of feminine vanity and vanities did NOT select a mate this sort.

Instead, he courted and proposed to a typical modern girl.

Who spent all the money she could afford on beauty parlors and new clothes.

Who took the best care of her skin

FOLLIES OF FASHION Large, Light Collar Dwarfs a Small Face

SOME ONE started the idea of growing old-fashioned flowers in window boxes and other receptacles, indoors—out, and now like a mad in the cities and it's also quite a fad to grow them in the smaller towns too, where there are gardens but not estates and so not too much room. They are loved, these old-fashioned blooms, not only for their beauty and primitiveness but also for their fragrance reminiscent to many who are growing them and for their novelty and delight to others.

There are, first of all, those exquisite little dwarf roses, cinnamon roses, spicy and pungent as their name implies, and they grow in gro and grow, indoors or out. Everyone who has had them loves them and, incidentally, preserves their petals for potpourri. Just as everybody used to do in the queer eighties, so we must be getting queer again.

Sweetgrass makes a charming indoor decoration. It's particularly lovely in one of those terracotta Roman boxes, or in any long, oval-shaped box, although, strange as it may seem, the sweetgrass, like the striped grass, somehow requires an ornamental box to set it off.

Those Italian flower boxes which are to be found in the shops in a variety of more or less ornamental effects are charming for the purpose and so are the plaster ones of imitation terracotta.

That tall sweet clover which lovers of the country adore always is another new-old indoor plant decoration much liked and used now. It was a favorite with the grandmothers who owned and tended with such care and loved so devotedly their "grandmother's gardens" and who could tell you how they made their perfumes from their gardens and the fields.

It is well to remember in planning for a garden indoors that isolation is the chief sought for—or should be—not massing. For outdoors a jumble of flowers or ferns or grasses, a riot of color, is charming, but for indoors a few flowers of a single branch of blossoms is far more artistic than a crowded lot of them.

So, even with the ferns or the grasses, arrange them carefully with an eye to showing their contours; arrange them very particularly with a regard for the type of container you are using. By this I mean regard your container and your flower or grass arrangement as one, not as separate motifs.

Go anywhere in the country and you'll find red geraniums arranged in a flower pot or in a straight line in a window-box until the poor red geranium has acquired a reputation for being just "common." But take an uncommon dish, perhaps one of American pottery of an old ivory tone, say fifteen or twenty inches square and anything over twelve inches deep, and with a rounded base, and plant in it a geranium, not necessarily a red one, for there are innumerable lovely shades from which to make a choice. Then, as it grows, cut its leaves and shape it Japanese fashion—a long but irregular main stem, a branch with a few leaves on here, another further down, or if you wish, it can be shaped to form a lovely leaf ball, with the blossoms, as they come, growing from the spots of color, and the whole making an incomparably striking decoration for any room in the house.

AD I know who Apple Seed Johnny was, but who is Apple Jack?"

"Apple Jack! I never heard of anyone named Apple Jack."

"Uncle Bob knows him."

"Uncle Bob knows him! Where does he live?"

"In New Jersey."

"Where does he live in New Jersey?"

"Almost everywhere."

"Almost everywhere? One man can't live almost everywhere."

"Apple Jack does."

"How do you know he does?"

"Because Uncle Bob said he ran into Apple Jack almost everywhere he went in New Jersey."

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

EVERYBODY'S thinking now.

These are the words of Henry Ford. What does he mean by them?

He means that people are using their brains instead of using tools, of some kind else.

He means that people are looking for new ways of doing things, and while I am speaking of this let me remind you that back of the Ford millions was the product of two French minds—those of Panhard and Levaissor, who took the Daimler gasoline engine and constructed the first automobile in New Jersey.

No matter what business you are in, look for new ways of doing things. Everything from a hairpin to a typewriter needs improvement.

Braid Shoe-Lace Belts

ONE practical girl who must make every penny count has made an attractive belt of shoe laces for her sports frock. She bought three forty-inch leather laces and painted them to match her dress, then she braided them together and attached a buckle.

These belts can be made of ordinary flat shoe laces dyed any desired color. White silk shoe laces dyed in contrasting colors then braided make attractive bands for sport hats. Three shades of the brown tones may be used for a brown or tan felt hat and black and white laces may be used for white or black hats to give a smart finish.

Cleaning the Felt Hat

TO clean the white felt hat scatter yellow cornmeal all over the hat, rub the meal into the felt with a stiff brush, then shake off all the meal and rub again with the brush to get the felt smooth.

Magnesia is also a good cleanser for white felt. Make a rather stiff paste of powdered magnesia and water, apply this with a brush, rubbing it in well and when dry brush it off.

For colored felt use fine sandpaper, rubbing the entire hat with it. Afterward rub hat with a piece of paraffin wax to give it a polish.

The Beauty Show

NOW that the formal season is here, and Beauty is spending more and more of her time indoors, the perfume problem assumes increasing importance.

During the carefree life of summer, a delicately scented bath talm, bath salts and perhaps a dash of toilet water sufficed. Indeed, in our opinion, these constituted the only correct and sensible means of scenting one's person in torrid weather.

That perfume is an art, few women will deny. Moreover, it is an art which only those with a special talent for it can practice without expert guidance.

To purchase a perfume merely because it is smart or in vogue is not a whit different from wearing an unbecoming hat because it happens to be in fashion.

Artful perfuming, like art in dress, properly begins with a study of one's self, one's coloring, one's personality, one's neighbors, then it must be regarded as an absolute failure. And, by the way, do you know, fair reader, that the olfactory sense of the nose is generally far more keen than that of his wife or sweetie?

We may desire to suit ourselves, but a very large proportion of us seem to lure the other species, don't we? Well, since they constitute the more critical species, either we should see to it that our fragrances are subtle and genuinely pleasing or we should resign content with smelling nice and fresh with the niceness and freshness that come from frequent bathing with fine, delicately scented soap, salts and body powder. But fortunately for those who are not too sure about their perfume talent, there is always an expert to guide them.

In the matter of types, simple, uncomplicated flower odors are best for the wide-eyed and breathlessly young, but to us, and mysterious Eastern smells most effective when they are associated with the sophisticated type of woman. The sportswoman demands something quite special in the way of perfume, something chic and pungent, as for example, a new-mown hay odor.

And then there is the time of day to be taken into consideration, too. The sportswoman cannot well go to the opera wearing her new-mown hay scent. Nor, by the same token, should the sophisticated woman take her morning walk leaving in her wake air waves replete of empire or cyprus or olive or muck. This is to offend.

Perfume art, like the art of playwriting, for example, must always reckon with the audience. If a perfume fails to please the nostrils of one's neighbors, then it must be regarded as an absolute failure. And, by the way, do you know, fair reader, that the olfactory sense of the nose is generally far more keen than that of his wife or sweetie?

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

LOOY DOT DOPE

NORTHCOTT TO BE EXECUTED TODAY

to see Mrs. Winslow, but doubted that his mission would end in success.

Is Accused

Northcott was accused of killing Lewis and Nelson Winslow, Walter Collins, 11, an unidentified Mexican boy and others.

Last week he sent telegrams to Mrs. Christine Collins, mother of Walter, and Mrs. Winslow, telling them he was ready to tell them everything he knew about their boys.

Just before he started his walk from "death row" to the "death chamber" which is directly adjoining the execution room on the third floor of an old red brick building, Northcott talked to Mrs. Collins for 45 minutes, told at least three different stories, and concluded as follows:

Denies Knowledge

"Honestly, Mrs. Collins, I am erady to die and I do not know what happened to your boy."

At that time Warden Holohan sent a telegram to Mrs. Winslow's home in Pomona to advise her against coming here but she had already departed.

"Northcott was not advised of the plea of his own mother, Mrs. L. Northcott, serving a life term here on a plea of guilt to complicity in the slaying of Walter Collins, that she be taken to the "death chamber" and die with her son. The condemned youth has been in this prison since February of 1929, when he was sentenced to be hanged, has been a model prisoner one day and the next has created an uproar in the prison by perpetrating a hoax or yelling repulsive remarks.

Once he shouted he had taken poison and was rushed to the hospital for application of a stomach pump, which determined that his claims were false. Several times he has yelled and shouted as though he was in intense pain. He has had several attacks of appendicitis and refused to permit an operation.

But since entering the "death chamber" guards have reported that his behavior has been good and he has seemed cheerful.

Mining Laws Of Mexico Are Changed

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 1.—Modification in the strict mining laws of Mexico, which became effective Oct. 1, are expected by local engineers to bring renewed activity on many properties south of the border.

The changes, it is pointed out, will make development of new mineral claims much easier and place the country's mining laws on a basis similar to that of the Diaz regime.

An important feature of the modification is that mines, under stipulated conditions, may be operated without taxation the first two years, with a 50 per cent tax reduction during the ensuing five years.

Another concession is a grant to mining corporations of permission to reduce working forces 50 per cent without application to the Mexican department of industry, commerce and labor.

A rider attached to this concession, however, recommends that the entire working force be maintained on a half-time basis to keep organizations intact and thus assist in bettering employment conditions in Mexico.

The modification was brought about at the suggestion of the Mexican mining congress, which was especially interested in the two-year exploration concession which will benefit the small, independent operator.

Of course he might not play them—but then the new invention soon to be available to the public in Hollywood enables you to talk your letter onto a phonograph disc and mail it to its destination, all for 25 cents. ## Democrat's Of R. I. Go Wet

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 1.—UP—A strong anti-prohibition plank, characterized as "dripping wet," calling for repeal of both the eighteenth amendment and the Rhode Island "baby Volstead act," was inserted in the platform at the Democratic state convention here today.

The convention, in drawing up a slate of candidates for the coming election, chose former Senator Peter G. Gerry, of Warwick and Providence as United States senatorial nominee. Theodore F. Green of Providence was the party's selection for the gubernatorial nomination.

jail and pay two fines of $50 each for conviction on the two other counts. Only Justice John E. Richards dissented from this attitude.

Scores Pastor

"We are satisfied that the broadest utterances of the petitioner disclosed persistent and intentional attempts on his part to impose his own will and ideas not only on the judges herein mentioned but on all the judges of the superior court," the decision said.

In addition to Judge McComb, Judge Walter J. Wood was mentioned in the opinion.

"We do not intend to state or to intimate in this opinion that acts of courts in respective matters in which they have expressed judgment are not to be freely and fully subject to both private and public comment," the opinion also pointed out. "This must be made, however, subject to both private and public comment."

The Rev. Shuler entered the Los Angeles county jail on May 5 and served 15 days of his 20 day sentence before his approval for a writ of habeas corpus reached the supreme court and he was released on $500 bail pending outcome of the matter.

cepted marked bills from Richard Smart, alleged bootlegger delivery man.

The cases of Patrolmen Richard Feely and J. S. Berwick, who were called from their beats today and severely grilled by authorities.

Evidence of an alleged hi-jacking by police of bootleg liquor, as reported by George Thompson, an admitted bootlegger, will be sifted.

Rum Runner Talks

Thompson, who admitted he employed Smart, police say, will be taken before the grand jury. He has "talked freely" Warren said. Thompson said police raided his garage on July 8 and seized a large quantity of liquor. A huge amount of fine wines, champagne and bonded liquors were never turned into the police, Thompson asserted.

As a result of revelations made by Thompson and Smart, police will start a round-up of bootleggers, it is expected, in order to discover what they know about police offers to give protection in exchange for hush money.

Santa Cruz To Have Birthday

SANTA CRUZ, Oct. 1.—"Grandma" Thompson, who last year through an oversight of a committeeman was left "waiting at the gate" after she had been invited to be the guest of honor in the city's annual birthday party parade, this year won't be the victim of such circumstances if Fred R. Howe, former mayor and now postmaster and president of the chamber of commerce, keeps his word.

When Santa Cruz celebrates its 161st birthday party next Saturday, Howe will call for her in his own automobile and will ride with her in the parade as his guest.

Poor Grandma was nearly heartbroken last year after waiting in vain for the promised automobile, having planned for the event several weeks in advance.

She was born 83 years ago in an adobe house, the site of which is less than 200 yards from her present residence. She has never been farther from the city than San Jose, which trip she made on horseback a score of years ago. Never has she ridden on a railroad train and she has no desire to.

Her present home was built 71 years ago by her father, Francois Poile, a French ship's carpenter who was one of the first settlers in Santa Cruz.

She is survived by another daughter, Mrs. J. C. Corcoran of Texas; a son John Newton Flippen of Vacaville and five grandchildren.

Woman Files Crash Suit

MARTINEZ, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Genevieve Tilford of Berkeley today filed suit for $20,000 here against W. B. Chisholm for injuries alleged to have been received Feb. 25 in an automobile accident that occurred at San Pablo and Nevin avenues, Richmond. Charges of carelessness and negligent driving have been made by the plaintiff, who also asks $700 for necessary medical attention. Mrs. Tilford alleges that she suffered severe body lacerations and concussion of the brain.
